It is unfair to charge higher fixed fees for all the customers that have solar. We all did the right thing to reduce our impact on the grid and we should not now be penalized with high fixed fees after we have already invested in solar.

This is a clear cut example of bait & switch. It's time for the CPUC to become consumer friendly and advocate in the right direction. It's taken over 20 years of homeownership to be able to afford a PV system and our investments should be protected- not raped because the bureaucrats are power hungry and deceitful. If you really want solar to be the green future, you will protect from pillage the right to secure our investments in this technology.

As American citizens, we are protected by law, against monopolies and price gouging. San Diego Gas and Electric (SDG&E) has engaged in unreasonable and unsustainable price gouging over the years.

California's electricity prices are among the highest in the country and yet San Diego manages to beat that. According to a study by the energy institute at UC Berkeley's Haas Business School, SDG&E charges double the national average.

Due to ongoing climate change, increase in cooling and heating costs are going through the roof. Utilities are not a luxury good, they are an essential service. With rising home prices, most people are locked out of purchasing homes and upgrading to solar, shifting the weight of these costs largely on middle to lower income San Diegans.

Please investigate the situation with San Diego Gas and Electric and help the citizens of San Diego afford this basic essential service without undue hardship.
